

Store fast forwards to a new site

A used video, music and video game seller is relocating.

Slacker's CDs and Games closed its store in O'Fallon and is moving to a new space in Fairview Heights. The store at 1566 W. Highway 50 in O'Fallon closed after business Sunday and is expected to reopen either today or Tuesday at Midway Plaza, 10900 Lincoln Trail in Fairview Heights.

Slacker's CDs & Games has 10 other locations in the metro-east and across the river, including one at 150 Junction Drive in Glen Carbon.

Walk on over to new shoe store in Fairview

A retail chain that sells women's designer shoes will be establishing its first metro-east location in Fairview Heights by the fall.

Designer Shoe Warehouse, better known as DSW, will be moving into an existing building at 6601 N. Illinois St., says city economic development director Mike Malloy. The space was one of 399 stores that Borders left and liquidated when the book store chain went out of business last summer.

A discount clothing retailer will open next month in Fairview Heights. Ross Dress for Less is planning to open its doors in Lincoln Place at 6005 N. Illinois St. with a ribbon-cutting ceremony March 3. The new store reoccupies a space where Linens 'n Things once operated.

The former Ultimate Electronics store in Fairview Heights will house a couple of new retailers. Fairview Heights Economic Development Director Mike Malloy said the store space at Lincoln Place will be subdivided and about 80 percent of that space will go to a new appliance and electronics store, Indianapolis-based HH Gregg Appliances & Electronics. The rest of the area will go to a girls' clothing store called Five Below, where all clothing and accessories cost $5 and less.
