MEMORANDUM

TO: Elected Officials

FROM: Paul A. Ellis, Director of Economic Development

DATE: August 14, 2020

SUBJECT: Economic Dev. Dept. - Director's Report

Addressing Economic Distress

1. The Director continues to orchestrate communications between agencies, local businesses, property owners, and other City departments so as to support recovery and long-term success for as many enterprises as possible.
2. Businesses in Fairview Heights have been successful in accessing financing and technical support from a variety of state and federal programs, and some have been successful winning resources from select private sources that the Director, in several cases, has helped identify and secure.
3. Every business from Fairview Heights that applied in June or July for assistance from St. Clair County has received funding.

Transitions

1. A national fast casual restaurant chain is seeking approval to establish a new location (replacing Ruby Tuesday) in Fairview City Centre, just east of Fresh Thyme; this new addition to Fairview Heights' retail offerings is one of the top five sales tax producing chains in the nation.
2. Sweet Cravings, a startup ice cream shop, is now open in the Fairview Heights Business Campus along Lincoln Hwy. (across the street from Schnucks Market).
3. The Director is working with several entrepreneurs and has been assembling a support team of local investors to help leverage services that will soon be available through the Metro East Business Incubator (MEBI).

Outreach

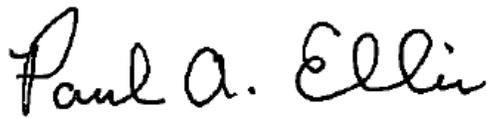

1. The Director has been focused the past two months on working closely with property owners—first, to address immediate problems resulting from the pandemic and lockdown; second, to identify (with the landlords' help) businesses that are struggling and then direct them to help; third, to encourage property owners to make new investment and recruit new tenants.
2. Retail recruitment continues despite potential roadblocks, with some property owners and some retailers pursuing more aggressive strategies than others; the Director continues to offer encouragement to property owners and brokers in order to increase the confidence in this market needed to get deals done.

Initiatives

1. The Director is working with the Director of Land Use & Development as well as community partners to explore creation of an arts district on the west side of town; discussions are just beginning.

2. The Metro East Business Incubator (MEBI) is preparing to serve entrepreneurs and small businesses immediately via a virtual platform, Startup Space. ♥
3. As a member of the Mid America Workforce Investment Board (MAWIB), the Director is involved in establishing a retail and hospitality training center in Fairview Heights; the program is awaiting state approval. ♥
4. A staff team is working with local and regional real estate brokers to pursue interest from a big box retailer in the 72 acres across from The Fountains. ♥
5. The Director has worked with other department heads and outside experts to craft the first edition of the Development Dashboard, which is now available for review. ♥
